

« Older Entries

So Many Travel Apps, and So Little Time to Find the Right One

17 August 9th, 2010 |  Author: Nick Topitzes

So Many Travel Apps, So Little Time!

The iPhone and other smart phones are changing the way we stay in touch. More and more people are leaving their notebooks at home or the office and traveling light – with just their smart phone.

One scary thought though is having your travel plans upset by weather and suddenly you are scrambling trying to find new flights and a hotel to stay for the night. There are over 200,000 apps for the iPhone and most business people don't have the time to dig through all of the applications to find ones that will work for them.

We found a great site that takes all the travel applications and puts them on one site so that you can determine which ones might be most useful to you. The site is <http://meetingapps.com/>. It categorizes the various sites into 23 categories such as airlines, hotels, restaurants,

GPS and global maps, sports activities, travel, and even meeting management.

Each category has about 20 applications so you can quickly see descriptions of some 400-600 websites, if you care to, but most likely you will find 3-4 you might want to add to your phone. Imagine being able to go to hotels.com at 11PM when your plane lands at O'Hare and you've missed your connection. Pull out your iPhone and do a quick search.

A great tool.

+ Share / Save

 Posted in Uncategorized |  No Comments »